"The Beauty Doctor," all the week with usual matinees.

Sam S. Shubert will present the big Madison Square Theatre successful musical comedy, "A Girl From Dixie," by Harry B. Smith, author of "Robin Hood," at the Academy next Friday, matinee and night. This musical comedy has a sane, rational plot, with an unusually brilliant musical setting.

All the numbers are consistently introduced, each in its turn being of a "whimsical" nature. The characters are all those easily recognized and clear cut. The title role is one that will endear itself to theatregoers of the South. The company includes Gertrude Millington, D. L. Don, Charles K. French, Clifford Leigh, Thos. J. Keogh, Charles H. Sheffer, Arthur T. Earnest, Julia Brink, Olga May and Helen French. The scenic production is of sufficient magnitude, and the costumes beautiful and costly. There is also a most stunning chorus of show girls. One of the most popular numbers in "A Girl From Dixie" is called "Mary, from Maryland," written by George A. Norton, and "The Lover's A. B. C."

Field's Minstrels.

The Al G. Field Greater Minstrels will play a return engagement in this city at the Academy of Music Saturday, matinee and night. It is always a pleasure to announce the coming of this organization, for it is the premier minstrel show of the South. Theatregoers of this city have learned to rely upon the promises of Mr. Field and the people have come to realize that the Field Minstrels are just a little better than the Field posters, and the show in fact is just a little greater than the words that attempt to portray the merits of the production.

The Al G. Field Greater Minstrels have been making a tour of the United States for twenty years. A few weeks ago at Charleston, S. C., Mr. Field celebrated the twentieth year of the organization of his show. It comes to amusement seekers with three stumps—time, experience and money. As these elements enter into it, it should afford genuine entertainment.

The melody of its popular songs has preceded it into this city, for the dardies, always musical at heart, are whistling the Field songs throughout the South. The refrain from "My All I Ask," "Good-bye, Little Girl, Good-bye," "The Little Church Round the Corner," and "Those Songs My Mother Used to Sing" may be rippling waters. It furnishes an environment for a company of dardies, who gather and do a series of dances. There is a monologue by Billy Clark and a musical "fete" by Nick Glynn. The performance is closed with "While Old Glory Waves," a series of specialties, disclosing the varied career of America's history.

This return engagement of the Field Minstrels is for the benefit of the "Elks' Rest." Mr. Field is one of the best known and most enthusiastic Elks in the country.

"The Beauty Doctor."

The attraction for the Bijou Theatre this week is one which has been endorsed by the most conservative of papers. It is a musical comedy, "The Beauty Doctor," and is winning all sorts of encomiums. The Baltimore Sun has this to say of the production, which is to be seen at the Bijou for one week, beginning to-morrow night:

"The Beauty Doctor," a tuneful, clever musical comedy, with many elements of popularity, delighted a large audience last night at the Auditorium. The production, which is by Fred E. Wright, is full of pretty girls, catchy songs, good dancing and plot enough to hang together a whole lot of comical and amusing situations.

The beauty-culture had its deal with in an exceedingly clever and satirical manner, and the manifold opportunities offered by the subject are availed of. Miss Henrietta Lee, as Julia, in the "Beauty Doctor," is a character of the first order, and she ably handles the part, while her gowns form one of the sensations of the play. In the first act she wears a costume with the coloring of an orchid in full bloom, and the idea is carried out by the application of painted orchids over the robe. One of the features of the "Beauty Doctor" is a quartet of unusual youth and singing excellence. The Imperial Quartet is the name taken by the quartet and they are particularly effective in the musical hit of the piece, "The Maid of Zanzibar," when they appear as four Zulus with assegais and shields, carrying the harmony of the number given. Given with the full strength of the ensemble, and with the dance of the Zulus the "Little Maid of Zanzibar" is a great suc-

ANNIVERSARY SALE!

JUST ONE YEAR OLD.

We take this medium to thank the public for their generous share of patronage accorded us during our first year. Usually an anniversary is celebrated by the giving away of souvenirs, music, etc. We change this method, and to show our appreciation, we celebrate by giving to the public for one week an opportunity to purchase goods at unheard-of low prices. An unusual event, especially at this season of the year. Masses remember our first semi-annual inventory sale, when they purchased goods at prices never before offered in Richmond. Even those prices are lost sight of in the magnitude of bargains offered during this our first anniversary sale.

Positively no goods charged during this sale. Mail orders will receive prompt attention and filled in order received.
